Questions and Answers Found in the Bible

1. Does Ez.38::1-23 both speak of Gog and many other Gentile nations attacking a wealthy nation of Israel?
2. Does the Bible say many Gentile nations attack Israel after Satan has been released? Rev.20:7-8 and Ez.38:4-6
3. When is Satan released? Is it not after the millennium reign during which time he has been imprisoned?
4. Does Rev.20:5 tell us no one will be resurrected during the millennium?
5. When does Satan lead Gentile nations against Israel--before, during, or after the millennium?
6. How, when, and where does the resurrection of the whole house of Israel take place? Ez.37:1-13
7. Are any other nations mentioned as being resurrected at the same time the whole house of Israel is resurrected?
8. Are there any scriptures that indicate Israel will be wealthy at the end of this age? Read about the end of this age ending with the seven last plagues of God's wrath. Rev. 16:1-21
9. Does it make sense that Gog would attack Israel during the millennium? If not it either takes place before or after the millennium.
10. If Gog attacks Israel before the millennium, considering the beast is in control of the whole world, (Rev.13:4-8) at the end of this age, is it logical to believe Israel is living in peace, wealthy, and being unaffected by what is going on? Ez.38:14-16
11. Why is the house of Israel not even mentioned as existing (before the millennium) at the end of this age in Revelation?
12. Does it seem logical that Gog and Magog (of Rev.20:8) who "has an army "the number of whom is as the sand of the sea" would be in power at the same time the Beast power is ruling the earth? It also is improbable that Israel will be dwelling in peace during the end of this age. There are many other unanswered questions relating to the event of Israel being attacked by Gog, when it takes place, but it is safe to say according to all the scriptures it does take place after the millennium.
